MESSAGE FROM THE HEAD

Other than not being in school because of the bank holiday, this week has been a fairly quiet one for us. Our Year Six children are in the final stages of preparing for their SATs next week and I am confident that their hard work will be visible in their results. Good luck folks! The disruption of polling day and the bank holiday has meant that we took the decision to defer our Ascension Day celebrations until next Friday when Y6 will have completed their tests. We look forward to our traditional time over at the church followed by a demonstration of a wide range of talents that the children possess. Our Forest School taster sessions continue and more than half of the school have now enjoyed this experience - thanks to the Home School Association for funding these days. I have had a few queries about what to wear for this day. I think that it's fair to say that the general rule of thumb is to try to dress for the weather and to wear something that it's okay to get muddy in. Waterproofs are important if it looks like rain as Forest School will carry on in all weathers except high wind. Please don't send your child in shorts as the forest school area contains quite a few things that could scratch bare legs.

Finally, as the weather has improved, can I remind you to send your child to school wearing suncream and with a hat if he / she requires these things. We try to utilise the shade as much as possible, but we are unable to apply suncream to the children. If hats could be named, it greatly increases the chance of them being reunited with their owners when they inevitably get lost!
